VINEYARD

Bloom's Field is a 7.5-acre parcel on the Domaine's western and windward edge. The marine influence has a profound impact on the growth and yield of the vines. The winds from the Pacific blow over Bloom's Field from morning to evening. The canopy is compact and the grapes, small and concentrated. A progressive endeavor that has become the flagship cuvée from the Domaine, Bloom's Field most precisely marries the traditional philosophy of complexity through genetic diversity with California's viticultural landscape.

TASTING NOTE

Bloom's Field consistently yields our most distinct wine at the Domaine. From our first vintage the environmental stress visited upon Bloom's Field contributed to a transparent wine, marked by signature salinity, brimming with nerve and driving threads of taut minerality.

The natural concentration forced by low yields in '15 offers a darker, more penetrating expression of Bloom's Field. The 2015 bottling is richer in color, texture, and weight, and the signature sweep of salinity and ethereal character are now undergirded by an unctuousness that carries with it drive and direction.
